A manifesto

We, the undersigned, are graphic designers, photographers and students who have been brought up in a world in which the techniques and apparatus of advertising have persistently been presented to us as the most lucrative, effective and desirable means of using our talents. We have been bombarded with publications devoted to this belief, applauding the work of those who have flogged their skill and imagination to sell such things as:

cat food, stomach powders, detergent, hair restorer, striped toothpaste, aftershave lotion, before shave lotion, slimming diets, fattening diets, deodorants, fizzy water, cigarettes, roll-ons, pull-ons and slip-ons.

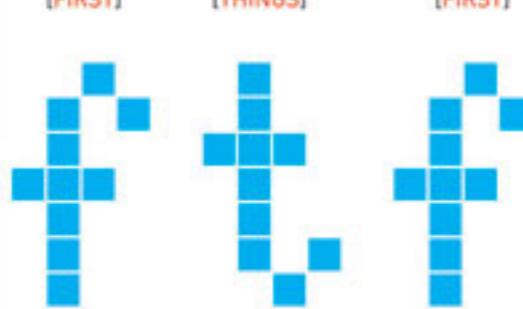

By far the greatest time and effort of those working in the advertising industry are wasted on these trivial purposes, which contribute little or nothing to our national prosperity.

In common with an increasing number of the general public, we have reached a saturation point at which the high pitched scream of consumer selling is no more than sheer noise. We think that there are other things more worth using our skill and experience on. There are signs for streets and buildings, books and periodicals, catalogues, instructional manuals, industrial photography, educational aids, films, television features, scientific and industrial publications and all the other media through which we promote our trade, our education, our culture and our greater awareness of the world.

We do not advocate the abolition of high pressure consumer advertising: this is not feasible. Nor do we want to take any of the fun out of life. But we are proposing a reversal of priorities in favour of the more useful and more lasting forms of communication. We hope that our society will tire of gimmick merchants, status salesmen and hidden persuaders, and that the prior call on our skills will be for worthwhile purposes. With this in mind, we propose to share our experience and opinions, and to make them available to colleagues, students and others who may be interested.

NEW KIND OF MEANING ¶ in 1964, a small number of british graphic designers lent their names to a quietly radical document. first things first was a rebuke to the design industry as it drifted deeper into commercialism and away from more vital and lasting forms of communication. the manifesto struck with the force of truth and inspired a generation. ¶ in 1999, adbusters' editor kalle lasn and art director chris dixon were visiting new york city and stopped in to meet the legendary designer tibor kalman. tibor was ill with the cancer that would, less than eight months later, claim his life, but his eyes were clear. he thumbed through the latest issue of adbusters, in which we had reprinted the 1964 declaration, then paused and gazed out the window. finally he turned back to kalle and chris and said, "you know, we should do this again." ¶ so we did. ¶ we re-drafted the original manifesto, bringing the language up to date and adding a provocative new thrust. ken garland, the driving force behind the 1964 document, visited the adbusters office and gave his nod to the project. with rick pynor and rudy vanderlans, we solicited endorsements from some of the most prominent designers around the world. finally, pynor and max bruinsma inspired us to launch the manifesto simultaneously in the design industry's most influential publications. ¶ first things first 2000 set the design world on fire. it was applauded, criticized, fought over, torn to bits and put back together again. over one thousand designers signed the manifesto at www.adbusters.org. now, in the aftermath of the storm, as biodiversity plummets, consumer culture spreads and corporations control an ever-greater share of global information flows, it's time to heed and deliver on the manifesto's most urgent demand: "a mindshift away from product marketing and toward the exploration and production of a new kind of meaning." ¶ the staff and volunteers at adbusters. ¶

¶ WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, ARE GRAPHIC DESIGNERS, ART DIRECTORS AND VISUAL COMMUNICATORS who have been raised in a world in which the techniques and apparatus of advertising have persistently been presented to us as the most lucrative, effective and desirable use of our talents. many design teachers and mentors promote this belief; the market rewards it; a tide of books and publications reinforces it. ¶ encouraged in this direction, designers then apply their skill and imagination to sell dog biscuits, designer coffee, diamonds, detergents, hair gel, cigarettes, credit cards, sneakers, butt toners, light beer and heavy-duty recreational vehicles. commercial work has always paid the bills, but many graphic designers have now let it become, in large measure, what graphic designers do. this, in turn, is how the world perceives design. the profession's time and energy is used up manufacturing demand for things that are inessential at best. ¶ many of us have grown increasingly uncomfortable with this view of design. designers who devote their efforts primarily to advertising, marketing and brand development are supporting, and implicitly endorsing, a mental environment so saturated with commercial messages that it is changing the very way citizens-consumers speak, think, feel, respond and interact. to some extent we are all helping draft a reductive and immeasurably harmful code of public discourse. ¶ there are pursuits more worthy of our problem-solving skills. unprecedented environmental, social and cultural crises demand our attention. many cultural interventions, social marketing campaigns, books, magazines, exhibitions, educational tools, television programs, films, charitable causes and other information design projects urgently require our expertise and help. ¶ we propose a reversal of priorities in favor of more useful, lasting and democratic forms of communication—a mindshift away from product marketing and toward the exploration and production of a new kind of meaning. the scope of debate is shrinking; it must expand. ¶ in 1964, 22 visual communicators signed the original call for our skills to be put to worthwhile use. with the explosive growth of global commercial culture, their message has only grown more urgent. today, we renew their manifesto in expectation that no more decades will pass before it is taken to heart.

WE'RE GONNA FREE THE SHIT OUT OF YOU

Manifesto:

2. To affect, or bring to a certain state, by subjecting to, or treating with, a flux. "Fluxed into another world." South.
3. Med. To cause a discharge from, as in purging.

flux (flūks), n. [OF., fr. L. fluxus, fr. fluere, fluxum, to flow. See FLUENT; cf. FLUSH, n. (of cards).] 1. Med. A flowing or fluid discharge from the bowels or other part; esp., an excessive and morbid discharge; as, the bloody flux, or dysentery. b The matter thus discharged.

Purge the world of bourgeois sickness, "intellectual", professional & commercialized culture, PURGE the world of dead art, imitation, artificial art, abstract art, illusionistic art, mathematical art, — PURGE THE WORLD OF "EUROPANISM" !

- flux 2. Act of flowing: a continuous moving on or passing by, as of a flowing stream; a continuing succession of changes. 3. A stream; copious flow; flood; outflow. 4. The setting in of the tide toward the shore. Cf. REFLUX. 5. State of being liquid through heat; fusion. Rare.

PROMOTE A REVOLUTIONARY FLOOD AND TIDE IN ART,

Promote living art, anti-art, promote NON ART REALITY to be fully grasped by all peoples, not only critics, dilettantes and professionals.

- 7. Chem. & Metal. a Any substance or mixture used to promote fusion, esp. the fusion of metals or minerals. Common metallurgical fluxes are silica and silicates (acidic), lime and lime-tone (basic), and fluorite (neutral). b Any substance applied to surfaces to be joined by soldering or welding, just prior to or during the operation, to clean and free them from oxide, thus promoting their union, as to in-

FUSE the cadres of cultural, social & political revolutionaries into united front & action.

Per Pino, un personaggio
sua popolare divinità perché disegni e scritte
in molti luoghi, nei campanili
e nelle chiese, parlano
"Cambiare sesso"
diceva lui stesso.

Talking a man into wearing
And the right condom.

Convincere un uomo a usare
il preservativo è facile, basta
scegliere quello giusto.
L'uomo giusto.
E il preservativo giusto.
